Meeting Supports Ambulance Plan

At a meeting in the Drayton Valley Town Office last Friday evening plans were advanced for the establishment of an ambulance service for the west sides of Parkland and Leduc Counties and towns and villages in the area.

Plans envisaged and discussed at Friday's meeting are for the service to operate from Drayton Valley and be subsidized by the municipal areas involved.

Parkland County will subsidize the service to the amount of $8000. and Leduc County $2000. The Town of Drayton Valley will also contribute $2000. and the other communities smaller amounts which were not outlined at the meeting.

The service will operate in the areas of the Drayton Valley and Breton Hospital Districts. The meeting also suggested contacting the Wetaskiwin County Council outlining the proposal and requesting participation for the benefit of residents of the county who use either of the hospitals.

Delegates to the meeting felt generally that the plan is worthy of support although Mayor Harry Staudt of Breton noted that there was some dissatisfaction in the village regarding the service. There was, he said, some feeling that the service would promote the Drayton Valley Hospital at the expense of Breton's Hospital.

Hard-surfaced highways leading to Drayton Valley, was cited by Mayor Staudt as a factor that might lead to increased use of the Drayton Valley Hospital. He stated that he could not give an indication of Breton's feeling in the matter until he has met with the council.

The meeting went on to agree that representatives at the meeting return to their respective councils with the proposal and a request for an expression of opinion. The committee also recommended that the County of Parkland call for tenders for a Class "B" commercial ambulance that would meet provincial standards.

Proposed fees for the service would be $25.00 for trips outside the ambulance district and $20. for residents requiring trips within the district. Non-residents of the area would pay the normal existing rates for ambulance service in Alberta.

The meeting was chaired by Councillor R. Zander of Parkland County who outlined the formative stages of the proposal and standards required to be approved by provincial legislature.

Others present were Councillor Ivan Vowk, Parkland; Councillors Alphonse Carron and Hans Hansen Leduc County; Mayor Harry Staudt, Breton; Councillor Ron Weiss, Warburg; Councillor R. Hubert, Drayton Valley; and W. Johanneson, Drayton Valley.

Mr. Zander, in outlining the proposal stated that from information received it would appear that the outlay for such a service would be in the neighborhood of $14,500 to $18,000. The service also requires two drivers for the vehicle.

Mr. Zander stated that to be effective the service would have to be subsidized by about $12,000 or $14,000. Provision of any less of a service would probably end unfavorably it was felt.

Weekly Newspaper Publishers Meet

Weekly newspaper publishers from across the province met last weekend at the Palliser Hotel in Calgary for the annual convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

A round of business sessions and receptions kept the delegates busy for the three-day event.

Delegates were welcomed to Calgary by Mayor Rod Sykes and during the course of the convention heard several interesting and informative addresses by authorities in a variety of fields.

Commisioner V.M. Seppala, Commanding "K" Division, R.C.M.P. outlined the role of R.C.M.P. officers in rural communities besides law enforcement and encouraged increased liason between the force and weekly newspapers. Libel laws and their application to the weekly papers was the subject of a talk by Mr. William B. Gill, Q.C., of Calgary.

Mr. E. Polanski, President of the Alberta Chamber of Commerce was another featured speaker and addressed delegates on the subject of the dwindling rural population.

A highlight of the Friday noon luncheon was the presentation of Junior Citizenship Awards by Lt. Governor Grant MacEwan. Timmy Town of Moon Lake was one of the group of award recipients.

New officers of the Association were named in the final day and will be led for the next year by President Howie Bowes of the Leduc Representative. Vice Presidents are Don Tanner, High River Times, and Walter Mandick, Stony Plain Reporter.

Nominations Today for Several Offices

Returning officer W.G. Johanneson attended at the Town Office today, September 16th, to receive nominations for the office of mayor and three councillors for one year terms.

Terms of office have expired for Councillors W. Rose and N. Swendseid, and Councillor T. Johnson retired recently in order to seek election as Mayor.

Nominations are still open as we go to press and will be reported next week.

Nominations were also being accepted for a trustee for the Drayton Valley R.C. Separate School for a one year term and two members of the municipal Hospital Board, also for one year. Terms for all elected officials will expire next year under new provision of the Town and Village Act.

Veterinarian Starts Practice

The search by Parkland County Council for a veterinarian to serve the west side of the county, ended this week with the arrival of Dr. B.B. Morden to set up practice in Drayton Valley.

Dr. Morden, who was raised on a ranch in the Fort MacLeod area, has been practicing veterinary medicine for the past five and a half years. He comes to Drayton Valley from a practice in Fort MacLeod.

Prior to practicing in Fort MacLeod, he worked a year in Calgary and then returned to studies and spent two years obtaining his Master's Degree in Animal Pathology at the Western College of Veterinary Medicine at Saskatoon.

Dr. Morden started his practice this week in temporary quarters in the old town police office formerly occupied by Dr. D. Kreycik.

His wife Shirley will join him here this weekend.

Regulations Announced for This Year's Hunting Season

The 1970 hunting seasons have been announced and some changes made in regulations by the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests.

Upland game bird seasons and daily bag limits are changed little from 1969. A pheasant and Hungarian partridge season has been declared in anticipation of low mercury contamination levels this fall. Testing of birds collected this spring, summer and early fall will be carried out before the season, declared for October 9th, gets underway.

Deer, elk, moose and caribou seasons have their earliest opening September 8th in the mountain regions and Big Game Zone 1. Foothills and prairies seasons will be open considerably later.

Although an antelope season is unlikely, the decision will be deferred until the annual aerial census on this species has been completed. There will be no mountain goat season anywhere in the province this year.

Grizzly bear hunting is also closed for this fall. It is expected that in the future grizzlies will be hunted only during the spring season. Grizzlies south of the Bow River will be protected throughout the year.

Bighorn sheep seasons opened August 29th throughout the mountain regions and non-trophy sheep permits will again be available on a quota basis.

Mule deer seasons have been reduced in several regions. Female mule deer seasons have been closed in all the prairies and parklands regions while the trophy-only mule deer season has been expanded to include more of the southern prairie area.

A special archery-only season has been declared throughout Big Game Zone 5 from September 8th to 19th. Elk, moose, black bear, and male mule deer and whitetail deer will be open. The archery season is scheduled ahead of rifle seasons in the area. In order to hunt with a bow anywhere in the province this year, hunters will require the special $3 archery licence in addition to the regular big game licences.

New regulations in effect this season will prohibit the use of a snow vehicle for the purpose of hunting in WMU S400-S446 between the hours of 12 midnight and 12 noon. Regulations introduced last year banning shooting from within 50 yards of a snow vehicle are still in force throughout the province.

A new zone, Big Game Zone 16, has been established in the Edmonton area. Seasons will be open for whitetail deer, mule male deer and black bear, but hunting is allowed only with shotguns and bow and arrow.

A new Sportsman's Package has been introudced. It includes an angling licence, wildlife certificate, bird game licence, MED licence and a sportsman's badge. The complete package only will be offered for $20. It is available only from the Fish and Wildlife Division, Department of Lands and Forests, Natural Resources Building, Edmonton. The MED licence is a $10 licence for residents which includes one antlered game tag which can be used for either moose, elk or deer. MED licence holders may not purchase other elk, moose or deer licences for the 1970 season.

Under the new licence schedule, cougar has been included in the elk licence. The limit for cougar is one.

Meetings on Task Force Report Recommendations

Have you attended any meetings on the federal government's task force recommendations? Do you know what changes the task force is recommending or what effect they could have on the future of the agricultural industry?

Unifarm is holding a series of meetings on the report, with assistance from resource personnel from the University of Alberta and the Alberta department of agriculture. The purpose of the meetings is to give all farmers in the province a chance to evaluate the proposed changes in agricultural policies and programs. It is important that you express your opinions on the recommendations before the federal government holds its meeting on the report towards the end of November

The federal minister of agriculture, H. A. Olson, said earlier this summer. "It seems essential that we draw attention to the present policies and programs that have to be changed to meet the recommendations of the task force. Until this is done, I am not sure farmers and farm leaders will fully understand the details and implications of the proposed changes."

Following are some of the more controversial changes recommended by the task force report.

That the primary specific trade goal of Canada should be to negotiate a free trade continental market with the United States for livestock and livestock products, feed grains, oilseeds, potatoes and some fruits and vegetables.

That the government must be willing to subject other sectors of the Canadian economy to increased foreign competition. For example, the so-called "voluntary quotas" on Japanese textiles and other manufacturers adversely affect the willingness and ability of the Japanese to purchase Canadian grains and meat. If other sectors of the Canadian economy have not made the adjustments necessary to become competitive (as most of agriculture has), then it is time they were helped to do so by the pressure of competition.

That the P.F.A.A. program be discontinued immediately.

That the Canadian Dairy Commission should be renamed the Canadian Dairy Adjustment Commission. Its objective should be to assist milk producers to adjus t their dairy enterprises so that the latter become profitable without extensive subsidies, or to assist milk producers who have little prospect of financial success as dairymen to phase out of milk production and into other operations with the least possible personal and social dislocation.

That all provinces should abolish resale price control on milk

That government and producers should accept as a target the export of 500,000 feeder cattle per year by 1980, and the production of enough beef and veal to meet Canadian consumption demands in full. Federal and provincial programs of research, extension and credit should take this objective into account.

That the feed freight subsidy from the prairies into British Columbia and as far as the Montreal freight zone be removed. The same recommendations should also apply to Ontario corn.

That the Canadian Wheat Board continue to be responsible for all commercial purchases of barley and oats from the primary producer but that -- each purchase by the Wheat Board should be hedged in futures market at the time of the purchase, or, as an alternative, provision should be made by the board to hedge daily a certain quantity of coarse grains in the futures market. -- All coarse grains produced in a given crop year should be sold during that period with the exception of a normal wheat board operating carryover, the size of which should be announced each October by the Wheat Board.

--All oats and barley delivered by the farmer should be accepted by the Wheat Board whenever offered except where delivery quotas are used in which case such quotas should be lifted entirely in May of each year.

That legislation be introduced by the federal government to permit the creation of national commodity marketing boards. The task force recommends that this legislation include -- a national agricultural marketing board, responsible to the federal cabinet and operating to benefit agriculture without serious adverse effects on the national economy. -- Appointments to the N.A.M.B. should delegate powers and responsibilities to commodity marketing boards, scrutinize carefully the way in which these powers are used, and withdraw them when the "national interest" dictates. -- National commodity marketing boards may be of various structures and compositions; some may be federations of provincial boards, some may be producer-controlled without provincial equivalents and some may be federally-appointed commisions.

The power to control imports should not be given to the N.A.M.B. nor to any international commodity board.

Unifarm meetings on the federal task force recommendations are being advertised over the radio, in local papers and on public bulletin boards. District agriculturists also have information on where and when these meetings will be held in your area.

Weekend visitors at the home of Mark and Sofie Chechotko were Grant and Stella MacDougal also Eddie and Marian MacDougal. Sofie reports that her baby is progressing quite nicely.

Dean and Betty Strangway with their family returned home in time for the school opening. Kevin enjoyed his month's holiday at Victoria but had the misfortune of breaking his arm while he was there. I'm told his arm has healed satisfactorily.

The farmers are all busily engaged in harvesting their crops while the weather is good. Some crops are very good and some are not so good.

Betty McDougall accompanied Don to Entrance to visit Jack, Ruth and Lorna McDougall for the weekend.

The Magnolia and Darwell baseball teams played three games of semi-final play this weekend. The first score was 7 to 4 favoring Darwell. The second was 5 to 3 in favor of Magnolia and the third was 4 to 2 also for Magnolia. This puts Magnolia in the finals which will be held at Sangudo on Sunday, September 13. Darwell hosted the first two games and Magnolia had the other one.

Birthday greetings to to Marvin Strangway who celebrated his twelfth birthday on September 2nd.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor,
The Western Review
Dear Sir:

As Chairman of the Parkland Regional Recreation Council, I would like to stress the need and the importance of a good representation at the Recreation Workshop, which is to be held in the Stony Plain Community Hall on September 17, 1970, from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The Minister of Youth is interested in hearing directly from the people of the Province with respect to leisure now and in the future. This is a mammoth assignment which can result in an exercise in futility, or it can meet the objectives as envisioned by the Minister. Whichever occurs depends directly upon ourselves and our committment to the future. What we have to say to the Minister will have a direct bearing on the policies with respect to Recreation Development. The Honorable Gordon Taylor is depending on ourselves and many other organizations to feed back the real concerns and aspirations that confront us; especially those of the small and rural centred community.

In brief then: what are the aspirations of our community as seen by ourselves? what problems are blocking the progress that keeps us from moving in the direction we hope to move? what is happening that is helpful, but may need further support, or change?

Do our problems and concerns relate to: Finance, assistance, methods -- Leadership, assistance methods, costs -- Communication, association, regional, provincial. Facilities, joint use, need for, finance, management. -- Transportation, distances, dual use, financing. -- Program centralization, decentralization, scope.

You may wish to discuss none or all of the above. Please feel free to handle your discussion topics so that the wishes of the community, organization, or group you represent are best made known.

I anticipate a good attendance prepared to spend a full day of fruitful discussion.

Respectfully submitted

Dear Sir:

I feel the urge to comment on this year's Frank Maddock High School Graduation. I also feel, and hope, that I'm speaking for many other parents and guests when I say Hats Off to all the people who organized, planned and carried out the whole event.

The decorations were impressive, the food was excellent. the band was good, and the theme most suitable. Most of all the conduct and atmosphere was commendable.

WARBLE CONTROL PROGRAM

It is every cattle owners concern to control one of the worst pests, the Warble Fly, in the cattle raising industry. During years gone by, our local Warble Spraying Associations have disbanded one after another. This presented a disheartening picture for the future.

Many requests reached this office to have a program established which would involve every cattle owner in this County to eliminate the Warble Fly.

Most cattle owners were contacted by Township Captains during the early summer to sign a petition either in favour or against establishing a compulsory Warble Fly Control area.

To establish such a program the Provincial Government made grants available, but an eighty per cent sign up is asked for. Final counts showed that this County was 90.4 per cent in favour, which resulted in establishing By-Law 17-70 and came into effect September 1, 1970.

A well planned and combined program will go a long way to bring about eradication. Cattlemen must be convinced that control will pay good dividends.

Both Co-Ral and Ruelene sprays provide excellent grub control when applied with a high pressure sprayer. The Pour-On Systemics, such as Neguvon and Ruelene are useful on stock-farms, where spraying is not practical.

A good supply of systemic insecticide is on hand and available at the County Office in Stony Plain and at Sekura Auction Mart in Drayton Valley.

A New Gimmick

Somebody is always coming up with a new gimmick to make money without working for it.

The latest is a gent who stopped by a local restaurant and placed an order for $23.40 worth of sandwiches to be picked up the following day. The order was given in the name of a local church, and was paid for by a cheque for $35. already made out and signed by "Mary Campbell." The change, $11.60, was given and that was the last seen of the man. The cheque bounced and no one picked up the sandwiches.

Three Camrose business places were taken in similar fashion for amounts ranging up to $16. Police have an excellent description of the man, and businessmen are warned to look out for "Mary Campbell." She could be a phony

The Troubled Skies

The practice of seizing aircraft in flight has reached alarming proportions and will require international co-operation to find a means of bringing it to a halt.

Hijacking has been compared to piracy on the high seas but the comparison is not really valid. Piracy was put down by force but a ship had lifeboats and passengers could escape a sinking -- but force cannot be used in the modern situation without endangering all aboard the aircraft.

The answer appears to be the solving of problems on the ground that lead to hijacking by guerrillas. The problem defies easy solution and each incident leads the world a little closer to the brink of war.

A Memorable Day

Friday in Calgary was a memorable day in the lives of several young Albertans who were named Junior Citizen award winners and received their presentations from Lieutenant Governor Grant MacEwan at the annual convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

We don't believe that the electric utility companies, sponsors of the program, could possibly find anyone more capable than the Lieutenant Governor for the award ceremony. His down-to-earth humor and sincere friendliness -- well-known to most Albertans -- make him an instant favorite of the young winners.

The presentation by Mr. MacEwan was one of several highlights of the day for the young award winners most of whom live in rural areas and probably don't often have the opportunity to visit the city, enjoying dinner in a large hotel and savoring the enjoyment of city attractions.

The memorable events for this year's award winners will be repeated for another group next year and residents of all areas of the province should be alert to recognize the qualities of potential Junior Citizens to ensure that no deserving youngster is overlooked.

AS SEEN BY OTHERS . . .

The Sky is Falling

Suddenly, everyone today is scared silly by predictions of the dire consequences to the human race by universal pollution. There is no denying that the environment of heavily populated industrial regions is deteriorating and television and newspapers give us dramatic examples of this very day, such as the hideous Tokyo and Toronto smogs and open sewers that were once beautiful streams.

Only a thoroughly aroused public scared for its own skin, will ever bring about the kind of national efforts needed to keep the atmosphere from further drastic deterioration, and therefore newspapers that give dramatic treatment to their discoveries of pollution no matter how inconsequential, can claim to be doing a public service.

Thus, the petroleum industry in Alberta has taken a pretty good pasting lately. It is an easy mark; its polluting cannot go undetected, because its fumes are obnoxious and its spills particularily conspicuous and unpleasant. While other industrial pollution is usually more insidious. The Independent does not mind if the oil companies are harrassed a bit, if it serves any useful purpose, but the public should not forget that wherever there are producing wells and means of transporting their products, there are going to be accidents, which cause spills. It is humanly impossible to guard against all eventualities, such as wells blowing wild and ruptured pipelines.

An example was a spill at Big Valley the other day. An oil pipeline which had been functioning for 20 years, suddenly sprang a leak and quite a bit of oil contaminated several acres of marshland, killing some water birds. Very unpleasant. However, the producer discovered the leak quickly and acted promptly. Perhaps 20 years is too long a lifetime to give pipes, we don't know, but surely our government does. The oil company seems blameless in this instance as it took prompt action and reported the spill to the authorities regulating the petroleum industry.

Presentations Made to Alberta Junior Citizens

CALGARY -- Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Grant MacEwan Friday paid tribute to nine younsters and two youth groups from rural communities who have been named Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year for 1970.

The Junior Citizen program endeavours to recognize and encourage young Albertans who demonstrate courage, initiative and leadership. It is sponsored by the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association and the investor-owned electric utility companies in Alberta.

Lieutenant-Governor MacEwan presented the awards during the annual convention of the AWNA at the Palliser Hotel. Each of the award winners received a certificate from the utility company serving their rural area, a citation signed by the Lieutenant-Governor and a Canada Savings Bond.

Six of the nine individuals and one group were from Calgary Power Ltd.'s service area.

Tom Emelson, 16, from Lomond, was named Junior Citizen for courageous action shown is saving the life of a two-year-old girl. Tom was standing on a pier at Travers Lake when he noticed a small child floating face-down in the water. He jumped into the lake and rescued the child.

Diane Greely, 14, formerly of Sedgewick. was cited for steadfast courage and cheerful patience in the face of great odds. Diane looks after her motherless home, caring for a younger brother and sister. Diane, battling a speech defect, aids her brother with a similar problem. While dedicating herself to the family, Di ane has also maintained school grades.

Bruce Lede, 14, of New Norway, was recognized for quick-thinking is saving the life of his cousin, Tim Ross. The two boys were snowmobiling when Tim's scarf snagged in the starting mechanism, jerking his head down and choking him. Bruce freed his cousin, and applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Van Lickiss, 11, of Hays, received his award for courage and initiative in saving his friend's life. While the two boys were playing in a tunnel, it collapsed. Vance uncovered his friend's head from the rubble and ran for help. Doctors at Taber Hospital said that Vance's action in freeing his friend's head undoubtedly saved his life.

Timmy Town, 12, of Moon Lake, saved his home from fire. While babysitting nine brothers and sisters, the roof of their home caught fire. Timmy got the children out of the house, then shovelled snow on the flames to contain the blaze. When the Entwistle volunteer fire department arrived, the blaze was out.

Laura Vassar, 12, of Hinton, was praised for selfless aid and dedication to a friend. Since grade 2, Laura has helped a friend, who is nearly blind, attend regular school classes. Despite her vision handicap, the girl has progressed to Grade 7, and leads a normal and confident life.

The biology class of Winston Churchill High School in Lethbridge received the group award for public-spirited teamwork in focusing attention on pollution. The class researched and wrote extensive articles on the Oldman River, pointing out the various pollutants that treaten the river.

The three individual awards from Candian Utilities Limited were presented to:

Daniel Beilman, 16 of Grande Prairie, for enterprising leadership. Two years ago, his father's death left him in charge of the home. Daniel has assumed the large responsibilities while still maintaining high school grades.

Cindy Lou Gelech, 12, of Clear Prairie, for heroism and initiative in rescuing four young children from a fire. She was babysitting at an isolated farm when fire broke out. Cindy escorted the four children to her own home three miles away. The home was destroyed.

Gregory Shannon, 15, of Consort, for heroism and initiative in saving the lives of two younger boys who panicked when they found themselves in too deep water at Pine Lake. He subdued one youngster and brought him to shore, and then returned for the other. He will also receive the silver medal for bravery from the Rt. Hon. Roland Michener in Ottawa.

The group award from Canadian Utilities was presented to the Youth Club for Retarded Children at St. Paul. The 20 members of the club have dedicated their services to help at retarded children's school and at summer camp. They teach their young charges special games, and direct recreational activities.

COMPUTERIZED BOOK

This year's annual report issued by the Canada Department of Agriculture's Research Branch will be one of the most computerized books ever published.

Computers have almost completely eliminated the traditional typesetting and composing facets of the publication process, cutting costs almost in half and speeding up publication of the complex 375-page report. It will be ready by early September.

COHO SALMON PLANTED

The 90,000 yearling Coho salmon which were planted in Cold Lake in May are alive and thriving, Hon. Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Alberta Minister of Lands and Forests announced recently.

A small number of one to two pound Coho have been taken by anglers recently and test nets indicate that the fish are well distributed throughout the lake and are growing at a rate which should bring them up to six or seven pound weight by the middle of next summer.

A second introduction of Oregon Coho will be made in the spring of 1971. Comparison of results from the 1970 Alaska Coho introduction and the 1971 Oregon Coho will indicate which of the two types is best suited to live in Cold Lake.

Coho salmon have a three year life history. The first year is spent in the stream where they were hatched, the second in the ocean or a lake and in the fall of their third year of life they return to their home stream to spawn.

Parkland Notebook

It's good to be back again in the office, as it is good to be back in Canada. It's going to take a few weeks-months to catch up on all that has been going on, and all that is being planned.

It's almost incomprehensible at first to see the major changes that have occured in just one year. I think that Cece Armstrong, acting as Superintendent, has done a superb job of guiding the department, and deserves much commendation in keeping his own as well as my normal tasks up-to-date. Certainly Mrs. Holgersen has to be mentioned for the promotion of an arts program that is the envy of anyone who knows anything about this kind of development, both in and outside of Canada.

I would like upon my return to thank all the staff for their dedication and the fine effort they made in picking up the slack created by my education leave. I am especially thankful for the co-operation and assistance offered us by the Department of Youth, The Department of Agriculture, and especially Darwin Park and Shiela Brown whom we are so very fortunate to have work with us in our County.

Last on my list of thank yous, but first in any operation are the community leaders. Without a group of leaders in the communities giving of themselves for the betterment of the community, little would happen. Of all the change that is most obvious upon returning after a year, is the many new names which have been added to the everyday vocabulary, names which indicate community leadership so vital to progress. Among this group I would include the association executives, board members, church leaders, Chambers of Commerce, school authorities, students, parents, and service club leaders, to name but a few.

I would like to say thanks to Mr. Smith and all his staff for their support and the coverage we value so much in communicating with the people of the area.

For myself, I have spent a most valuable year at the University in Utah, and I am hopeful that some of the studies which I have done and some of my experiences may be of value to our development here in Parkland County. I hope that many of you find time to drop around to the office and that we may become acquainted again.

Since the Minister's Conference is not too far in the future; and since the success of that conference will depend on the communications from the people to the Minister; and since Cece will be out of the office for a couple of weeks, which mean I will have the responsibility of setting up the local workshop, I had better get on with it.

Couple Exchange Vows In Rimbey Church

A beautiful summer wedding was solemnized in the United Church, Rimbey, on Friday July 10th at 1:00 p.m. when Sheilah Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hammond of Alder Flats, and James Neil Wilson of Buck Lake, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of White Rock, B.C. were united in marriage. Rev. Jerry de Vires performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a traditional gown of white lace over satin with four layers of net hooped over skirt. Gathered lace edging decorated the gown around the full skirt. The neckline was square at front, and veed at back and featured seed pearls around the edge with sparkling aurora borealis sequins at the front. It had fitted lily-point sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length net veil with lace edging which matched the lace of her gown, and was held in place by a Tiara in crown effect with sequins and seed pearls, identical to those in the gown. Her bouquet was of red roses with white satin streamers, ending in red rose buds. Her jewellery was a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom.

The brides attendants were Matron-of-Honor, Mrs. Mickey Parker, Senior; bridesmaid Miss Linda Wennerstrom, and Junior bridesmaid, Miss Kathy Hammond, sister of the bride. Their gowns, which were all made by Mrs. Eleonor Danyluk, were Coral chiffon over taffeta with a narrow belt of silver braid and pearl teardrops. They wore five roses of coral and yellow in their hair, silver acessories and pearl necklaces, a gift of the bride. Their bouquets were yellow carnations and yellow and coral-tipped roses.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of Mauve fortrel with contrasting scarf, pink and bone acessories, with pink roses en corsage.

The grooms mother wore a beige brocade dress, white accesories and a pale pink corsage.

Groomsmen were Mr. Bill Duffy and Mr. Ralph Becker and the ushers were Mr. Gary Hammond, brother of the bride, and Mr. Wallace Wilson, Brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the Alder Flats Hall at five o'clock. The bridal table was centered with a three-tier cake, a gift of the brides' aunt, Josie Anderson; decorated in white with red roses and silver leaves. A miniature bride and groom stood in the center of heart-shaped lace with two doves holding double rings. It also had white bells with silver ribbons ending in tiny red roses. On either side of the cake were vases of white dahlias, and blue and white candles. The hall was decorated in blue and white flowers and streamers.

Mrs. Leona Duffy said grace. after all the guests were seated at the tables, and Mr. Ray Tomkins was a very entertaining Master of Ceremonies. The toast to the bride was given by Mr. Bob Wennerstrom and to the bridesmaids by Mr. Dalton Parker. Miss Wendy Foster in charge of the Guest book. After the huge assortment of gifts had been opened, Open House and a dance was held, with a large crowd attending.

The bride later changed to her going away outfit, a white coat, a low-waisted dress with yellow and white checked bodice and yellow pleated skirt. With this she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Out of town quests were from Edmonton, Lacombe, Rocky Mountain House, Cremona, Blackie, Drayton Valley and Breton in Alberta, and White Rock, B.C.

After a two week honeymoon at White Rock and Vancouver Island, B.C., the couple will reside in Rocky Mountain House, Alberta.

SUB-MITS

FROM THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

This week's column will be short. The teachers and pupils are busy getting into the routine of working again. Little time remains for news for you.

Mrs. Barbara Harrison (grade 2) has as guests, her husband's parents from England. This is their first trip to Canada and the United States. They are really enjoying their stay here. Among their comments were "We feel quite at home here. Everyone is so friendly." They are much impressed with the spaced houses and the colorful roofs. And among the Canadian style of cooking, pancakes and maple syrup are delicious. Only the snow in September dampened their stay.

USELESS GOSSIP

And speaking of snow, last Thursday night, who saw two of our local teachers trying to have a weiner roast at the campsite. Is it true Miss Batten and Miss Bolstler that you even had to dry the wood out first?

Wins Puppy

Shane Hanson of Drayton Valley was the lucky winner of a puppy in a contest,conducted recently by Macleods Hardware. Draw for the winner was made on September 2nd.

PARKCOURT NEWS

Now that school is started everyone feels as though fall is here and swathing and combining are in full swing. The women are also busy trying to put the fruit and garden produce in freezer and jar.

Quite a few little people began their school days and are now students of the Evansview School. They are -- Bruce Greenwood, Louise Pauldure, Jackie Rosadiuk, Darin Prylowski, Paul Semenyna, Maryann Novitski, and Sherry Osborne.

Many parents and friends attended graduation exercises on Saturday night to honor the young people of the district. Those graduating were David Stewart, Beverly Tuftin, Cecile Fausak, Faye Fausak, Gloria Kremeniuk, Gordon Langer, Shirley Weist and Verna and Terry Demkieu. Some of these former students are now employed while others are continuing their education. Wherever they are they are wishes the best.

Mr. Albert Tuftin is once again in the hospital to await another operation. Also sorry to hear of Mr. Blahun's accident with the combine. He is now in the Drayton Valley Hospital.

Mrs. Hazel Fausak is now employed at the post office in Evansburg.

A meeting was held at the hall last Wednesday night to discuss the possiblity of rural mail delivery.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kasiniuk on the birth of their daughter.

We were all happy to see that the school bus road has been gravelled which will be much better for all concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stewart Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Andy Chapka, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Greenwood and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Graf were all out from Edmonton visiting their families over the long week end.

Wife: "I don't think I look thirty-five, do you dear?"

Hubby: "Not now, darling. But you used to."

Slice of life.

Bread is a basic staple in the good life Albertans lead. And living in a province that grows the world's best wheat, we tend to take it for granted. Of course, for the farmer it's a little more complicated. It means an investment in labor, machinery, good soil management. Then markets must be found, transportation undertaken . . . even before milling and baking play their part. All in all, a skilled and complex business — comparable in many ways to the supply and distribution of electric energy. Here too specialized skills and complex processes are required to ensure that all the electricity you want is ready for instant flick-of-the-switch availability. While the overall cost of living has increased dramatically the price of electricity is still one of today's best bargains. Did you realize that the power used on a farm is, on average, less than one per cent of the total operating costs? That's something to think about when you consider inflation — or watch the toast pop up!

Summerfallow Surface Determines Control

The condition of the soil on summerfallow land this fall can have a very significant bearing on the amount of wind and water erosion that takes place next winter and spring.

A.W. Goettel, head of the soils branch of the Alberta plant industry division, stresses that soil erosion preventative measures are more important than ever this year because of the estimated 20 per cent increase in summerfallow acreage in the province. Ensuring that there is sufficien crop residue left on these fields is probably the single most important factor in preventing soil erosion.

Crop residues include straw and stubble from last year's crop, a cover crop and even late fall weed growth. It is only necessary to remove weeds from summerfallow land in the late fall if they include such deep-rooted perennials as thistles and couchgrass. Then, if the summerfallow contains only patches of these deep-rooted perennials, Mr. Goettel suggests cultivating the patches and leaving the rest of the field alone.

Leaving the soil surface in a rough, cloddy condition will prevent some erosion, but it should be remembered that the surface soil structure breaks down during the winter and that it may be susceptible to erosion in the early spring, particularly if it is exposed to alternate freezing and thawing.

In cases where land has been summerfallowed for two years in succession, where it is very susceptible to erosion or where it has no trash cover, Mr. Goettel strongly recommends planting a cover crop. You can seed the whole field to a cereal crop or fall rye in late August or early September and use it for pasture, or seed only those areas (knolls, water courses and low lying areas that are particularly subject to wind or water erosion. Another method is to sow drill-width strips of grain, 20 or 30 feet apart, at right angles to prevailing winds.

Since it is impossible to recommend any one "best" method of erosion control because of the wide variations in soil types, weed infestations and climatic conditions, the choice is left up to the individual farmer. He alone knows how to use his time, equipment and experience to the best advantage in controlling soil erosion.

Are you a young homemaker that can't attend programs because you don't have a babysitter? Are you "housebound" with pre-school children? If your answer is "YES" to these questions, then a weekly MOTHER'S DAY OUT PROGRAM is for you.

The Parkland Regional Recreation Department and the Department of Agriculture are jointly planning a MOTHER'S DAY OUT PROGRAM in two areas in the County of Parkland starting in the middle of October.

The program will be held half a day, once-a-week. Baby sitting services and a pre-school program will be offered at the same time as you the mother will participate in a separate program.

Are you interested in knowing about the many lives of a homemaker? Topics at such a program could include self-improvement, the art of being a hostess, hair and make-up, weight-watching, keep-fit, clothing selection, family communication, crafts, etc. But what would you really like in a MOTHERS DAY OUT PROGRAM?

PLANNING MEETING

A planning meeting was held in Drayton Valley last week and the ladies there are really excited about the program. For those of you in the Stony Plain area, the planning meeting is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. at the Parkland Recreation office on September 29th.

Please try to attend and help us plan your program. Looking forward to seeing you at the planning meeting and hearing your ideas for your chance to "Take-a-break".

Water Quality Affected By Variety of Sources

What are the things that affect the quality of water and what can be done about them?

Water that has been contaminated by bacteria is not safe to drink. The contamination is usually caused by either human or animal excreta. Although it is difficult to test directly for disease producing organisms in the water, other organisms from human and animal wastes can be identified by having a sample of water tested.

Algae in water are not harmful, but if present in large quantities will give the water an unpleasant taste and appearance. Turbidity or muddy water is not harmful either, but most people object to drinking it. The turbidity is caused by fine soil particles that are held in suspension in the water.

Decaying organic matter causes an unpleasant taste and odor in water. A charcoal filter will usually improve both.

Iron in water is not injurous to the health; but will leave rusty stains on appliances, water fixtures and clothes. Tea and coffee made from water containing even small quantities of iron will be different in color and taste to that made with water containing no iron. The iron, which usually comes from the soil, can be removed, but the method of removal varies according to the iron content of the water.

Nitrates in water are caused by decaying organic matter. The water can be dangerous for both human beings and animals. A high nitrate level in a water supply is often caused by seepage from livestock barns.

Calcium or magnesium or both are responsible for water being hard. Soap will not lather in water that contains one or both of these chemicals, and a film will be left on clothes and dishes washed in hard water. Scale formations may appear in water heaters and hot water pipes. Hard water can also cause skin irritations. Water softeners will remove these chemicals.

Sodium salts are not harmful in water, but if combined with carbonates to form soda water, they will "pit" aluminum containers.

Sulphates are present in the water in some areas of Alberta. More commonly known as Epsom Salts or Glauber's Salts, these sulfates have a laxative effect. It is too expensive or impossible to remove them from domestic water supplies.

Lead is rarely found in water, but is poisonous when present.

Anybody who is in doubt about his water or wants to find out if he can improve its quality should send a sample to the provincial analyst, O. S. Longman Building, 6909 - 116th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, or to his local public health office.

The goal for the auxiliary in the next year is a Hydraulic examining table for the hospital, for which they must raise $1000. in that period.

Discussions on money raising projects followed. One of many is the forth-coming rummage sale scheduled for October 20, at 1:00 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Datsun welcomes the competition

Datsuns came first, second, third and fifth in the 1970 East African Safari Rally.
Nine out of nineteen cars to finish were ours.
We won the Canadian Winter Rally.
We won the 10,000 miles Around Australia Rally.
We won our class in the last Shell 4000.
We won the Canadian National Rally Championship in 1967 and 1969, and we're way out in front again this time.
We've proved our car a winner time after time, year after year.
Here's why.

Not just for glory
We did it to see what Datsun could do under extreme driving conditions. We wanted to test our car to its limits, under the worst possible conditions against the best possible competition.
And as a result of the results, today all Datsun drivers get superb performance, ironclad durability, smooth handling and up to 35 miles to the gallon.

Here's what the competition's got to beat
96 horse overhead camshaft engine. Dual barrel carb. Alternator. Independent rear suspension. Unit-body construction. Lots of no-cost extras. Like bucket seats, front disc brakes, door-to-door carpet, and flow-through ventilation.
And of course, the complete safety package including telescopic shock-absorbing steering column, headrests, harnesses, and four-way flashers is standard. The only options are a radio and 3-speed automatic transmission.

We want to be fair
Without the untiring efforts of the competition we wouldn't be where we are today. Out front. We want to thank them, because the harder they try, the harder we have to try. And that's good for everybody.

Seek Name for New Building

At the last Club meeting, which was on September 2nd, a discussion was held on names for the new recreation building. It was decided that each organization in the community discuss the naming of it at their own meetings and submit the names at the October Tomahawk District Club Meeting and a name will then be chosen.

Tenders for caretaker of the skating rink for this winter are now being posted. Anyone interested please send your bids to the Tomahawk District Club secretary by October 14, 1970.

Ball season is now over. The Tomahawk "Little Canadians" made a very good showing at the Alberta Provincials in Edmonton on September 5th and 6th. A very exciting game took place against Medicine Hat, on Saturday, the 5th, having to play two extra innings to break the tie and Tomahawk won. The Little Canadians had a family picnic on September 12th to complete their ball season. They chose up sides, with fathers and sons all playing and mothers were the umpires, and spectators.

Now that ball is in the past for this year, we're looking for hockey coaches. And, we in Tomahawk all know how many boys we have so you know that we need several coaches. So come on fathers, be a part of your sons life, go with him and enjoy his game and even better, be a coach and help a lot of boys in the community. If you're interested, and we hope you are, be at the next Tomahawk and District Club meeting on October 12th at the recreation building.

October 1st has been set for registration night for all recreation classes for this fall. We have something for everyone, so make sure you're out and inquire about them. I'm sure there will be something to interest you. Registration will be at the Recreation building and coffee will be served. Everyone welcome.

Selling Cattle by The Rail Grade

Under the present marketing system there is usually no advantage to selling traditional breeds of beef cattle by rail grade. Rail grade selling still has a lot of complexities and problems can arise.

According to A.W.N. Erichsen, Supervisor of the Alberta department of agriculture's Feeder Associations, total receipts per animal are usually the same for cattle sold on a rail grade basis as in cattle sold on a live weight basis. This is especially true if the animals are from traditional breeding and have the required finish, he says.

However, there are some cases where it may be beneficial to use the rail grade system. For example, it would probably pay a man feeding heifers which he knows are not pregnant to sell them by rail grade, especially if the packer buyer is not convinced. Similarly, a feedlot operator feeding dairy type animals, even some of the newer European and American breeds, might obtain a better return by selling them on a rail grade if he feels they will dress out better than the packer buyer has estimated on a live basis. Yearling bulls are another class of animals that might sell better on a rail grade basis because packer buyers are usually afraid of dark cutting meat from bulls. They are also unable to accurately estimate the percentage of bulls which will receive a bull grade instead of a choice or good grade.

Mr. Erichsen advises anybody selling cattle by rail grade to take the following precautions:

Before selling make definite arrangements on the price of a choice carcass and establish a price differential between this price and prices for the other grades.

Arrange for a definite killing time before shipping the animals. The longer they stand at the packing plant, the more they will shrink. Since cattle sold by rail grade are not weighed until they have been killed and dressed out, the feeder will not be paid for weight lost before slaughter.

Never sell a few animals by rail grade. One of the problems in rail grading is to accurately identify the animals. The larger the group the easier it is to at least maintain group identification. In addition to the identity problems, a feeder is much more likely to misjudge the dressing percentage of one or two animals than he is of a larger number. If he sells at least 10 head at a time, he should reduce losses from faulty estimates.

Because only a small percentage of the cattle slaughtered are sold by rail grade, no provisions have been made for an independent inspector to check the carcass weights. This means that the feeder must rely upon the packing plant operator for his carcass weight. The grades that a feeder receives for his beef carcasses are given arbitrarily by an impartial federal grader. Many farmers and researchers are presently working to revise the grading system to increase its usefulness to the livestock industry.

Selling by rail grade at the present time, says Mr. Erichsen, requires considerable trust and cooperation on the part of both packing plant operators and farmers.

Upland Bird Season Planned For This Fall

Hon. Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Alberta Minister of Lands and Forests, has announced that there will be a pheasant and Hungarian partiridge season in Alberta this year.

Results of mercury analysis received in the past few days indicate that concentrations of mercury in the birds will be within health standards this fall.

Final analysis of birds collected in the fall of 1969 showed that a season could possibly have been allowed at that time had we been aware of the results at the time. There has been a reduction in the use of mercury by the agricultural industry since that time.

For scientific purposes further bird collections and investigations will continue.

Demand for Quality Pork Not Being Met by Breeders

Alberta swine breeders claim that they produce some of the best pigs in the world, and while this is undoubtedly so, something happens to many of these good pigs before they reach market, says a federal livestock official.

Vince Macdonald, Edmonton district supervisor of livestock production and marketing, notes that in the period from January 1st to July 25, 1970, a total of 819,728 Alberta hog carcasses were inspected at approved packing plants. Yet only 94,458 or 11.5 per cent of these had an index of 105 or higher needed to qualify for the federal goverment's quality premium.

There's always been a tendency to associate the low quality of Prairie hogs with an excess of wheat, but it can't all be blamed on the large volume of unmarketable wheat now stored on farms.

Even Saskatchewan farmers, who probably have more surplus than Albertans, marketed a higher percentage of hogs during the past six months that were eligible for the premium. According to Mr. Macdonald, during the same six month period producers in the Wheat Province marketed a total of 366,686 hogs, of which 46,931 or 12.8 per cent earned the quality premium with an index of 105 or higher.

The Atlantic Provinces continue to lead the nation in production of quality hogs.

British Columbia was second with 15.5 per cent, Quebec was third with 14.1 per cent and Ontario was fifth with 12.3 per cent.

At the beginning of this year the federal government introduced a new grading system designed to recognize and reward the producer of quality hogs in this country. Although it may be too early to expect results, so far there does not appear to be any appreciable improvement in quality, and Ottawa is reported to be planning to drop the quality premium at the end of 1970.

During the current year there has also been a sharp decline in the number of hogs being placed on test at Record of Performance stations across the country, and this is a further cause for concern

At a time when so much emphasis is being placed on quality it's unfortunate that farmers themselves are not making a greater effort to produce and market the premium product that the consumer is demanding, Mr. Macdonald says.

"They have good basic stock and there's any amount of information available onfeeding and management. What seems to be lacking, in most cases, is a real desire on the part of many producers, to market a product that will meet today's high quality standards."

Lamb Premium Being Phased Out

OTTAWA -- The quality premium for lambs will be phased out at the end of this year, completing a process which began in April, 1968.

The $1 premium currently paid by the Canada Department of Agriculture applies to Choice carcasses in the 36 to 56 pound weight range.

The premium will continue on lambs delivered up to and including December 31, 1970.

The Lamb Premium Policy was introduced in 1961 to encourage farmers to produce the type of lamb consumers prefer.

Colleges Provide Courses On Pollution Control

Education is one of the best, and certainly one of the most permanent, ways of controlling soil, water and air pollution.

Being among the first to recognize this fact, Alberta's agricultural and vocational colleges at Olds and Vermilion inaugurated two programs last year which deal with pollution. Both are being continued this year and are designed to provide practical training in pollution control and elimination.

Graduates of these programs will have the basic background necessary for employment by either government or private industry involved in the many aspects of pollution control.

The agri-chemicals technology program gives the fundamentals of the proper use, care and handling of all agricultural chemicals, including the common pesticides. Courses involve a study of agricultural chemical formulations and characteristics; plant and animals physiology and ecology; proper chemical application methods, disposal and decontamination techniques; and legislation and regulations concerning agricultural chemical use and distribution.

Suspension Fencing Becomes Popular

Suspension, or long-span fences are rapidly gaining popularity with Alberta farmers and ranchers for boundary fences, cross-fences and especially for rotational grazing.

The distance between the posts is the main difference between suspension and conventional type fencing, says G. W. Law, the Alberta government's regional agricultural engineer at Calgary. Post spacings in suspension fences vary from 75 to 150 feet with 100 to 120 foot spans being quite common.

The limited number of posts required greatly reduces the initial and maintenance costs of suspension fences compared with a standard fence, and makes them ideal for temporary fencing on fallow, stubble and hay fields. However, the fact that a solid post must be used whenever there is a major change in topography limits their practicality in uneven or rolling country.

Mr. Law reports that tests carried out in many states in the U.S. and, more recently, on community pastures in Saskatchewan and Alberta, have shown that suspension fences confine livestock just as effectively as standard fences. In fact, in some ways they are more effective, he says. For example, their resilience stops animals from running through them or breaking a strand of wire, and their whipping action discourages bulls from fighting through them.

The normal three, four or five strands of barbed wire are used in suspension fences. They are tightened and stapled in the usual way to the posts. Then, specially twisted wire stays that resemble giant double corkscrews are screwed down over each strand of wire to hold them the correct distance from those above or below. Each strand is held between the twists of the stays. The stays which come in different lengths, and should be placed about 16 feet apart, should not touch the ground. This leaves a suspended unit of fence between each post. The only exception is the centre stay in spans of over 100 feet. It should reach to the ground.

"There's only one thing wrong with this canoe," said the young man to his newest girl friend.

"What's that?" she asked.

"Well, if I tried to kiss you in this," he answered, "It might capsize".

Quickly the girl remarked: "I can swim."
